Weatherford High School
Weatherford, Oklahoma

These are trying times. During one's high school years, he will try many of the ideals, opinions, and habits that will follow him throughout the remainder of his life. High school is a proving ground for these many aspects of living that one works toward or around to become an individual.

The things that he does, tries, even the things that are shown through what he thinks, will be viewed by others. These persons will estimate their value and use or discard them, but of the source of these views, they will form an opinion. No matter how unaware one is, he is being watched, and somewhere, someone is formulating an opinion of him.

This book is provided to give the reader a look at the many things which went into the initial building blocks of the persons contained here-in. Look, judge, but remember, these facets of life could very well belong to anyone. And any reader might look back and see his own ...

REFLECTIONS.

Dedication Goes To Mrs. Spann

In 1949, when the "Eagle" was nothing more than pages in a loose-leaf binder, Mrs. Letha Spann was sponsoring the senior class which developed the idea of producing the first Weatherford high school yearbook.

The first yearbook, though not practical, was the forerunner of this publication, and from 1950 to 1963, Mrs. Spann added "yearbook sponsor" to her responsibilities.

Mrs. Spann, herself a graduate of Custer City high school, went to the University of Oklahoma where she received her Bachelor of Science and Master's degrees, thus preparing herself for a teaching career.

With forty-two years of teaching experience to her credit, Mrs. Spann has taught twenty-nine years in this school system. During that time, almost all of her classes have been mathematics oriented.

When SMSG math was initiated into Oklahoma schools, Weatherford high was one of the seven pilot schools in the state, and heading the math program was our dedication recipient. Mrs. Spann worked directly under the program's head, Dr. Zant, and helped prepare textbooks for the program by checking problems.

Recognized throughout the state as an outstanding mathematics teacher, she has in the past held the distinguished titles of President of the Southwest District of the Oklahoma Education Association and Custer County Classroom Teacher of the Year.

Students are always a challenge to a teacher, and Mrs. Spann meets eighty-five challenges a day.

Teaching all math courses in high school this year, Mrs. Spann instructed algebra II, intermediate mathematics, analytics, and two periods of geometry.

Today Reflects . . .
The Memories Of Tomorrow

At the first pep assembly held prior to the Weatherford-Clinton football game, Stan Templeton and Matt Wynn, co-captains of the team, were called forward to give a few words to boost the morale of the team.

Hard Work, Fun Benefits Everyone

Bonnie Schomp demonstrates the art of a stage slap to attentive pupils Deloras Ramsey and Linda Nix, who are preparing their interpretation of "A Patch of Blue."

Highlights Add Up To A Perfect Year

"Take those hats off, I don't care if your heads are cold," commands Mrs. Cecil Devine, office secretary. Football players

Matt Wynn, Robbye Jones, and Stan Templeton, excuse their bad manners as only following orders of Coach Smith.

School spirit for the "Fighting Eagles" is really at its peak before the state playoff game with Hobart. What better way to demonstrate Eagle power than a bonfire where a Hobart Bearcat is burned in effigy. Captains Stan Templeton and Matt Wynn show their enthusiasm by tossing in the Bearcat.

Frontier Day at Weatherford High School gives students Robbye Jones and Bonnie Schomp an opportunity to discuss fashions of the Western Era.

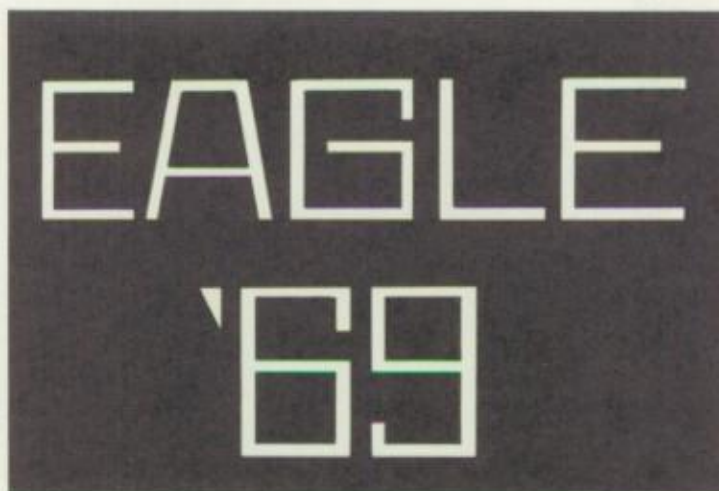

Senior band queen Peggy Wilkinson remembers all the honors that the band has received and is proud to be representing the "Pride of W.H.S."

Charles Kramer, president of the board, is overseeing financial records and statements submitted by the board members at their monthly meeting in the Administration Building. The Board of

Mrs. Clara Frost and Miss Glenda Richardson are secretaries of the Weatherford Public Schools, while Mrs. Cecil Devine is in charge of the high school.

Board Gains New Member

The 1968 Administration for Weatherford Public Schools started the year with a new member and a new building. The Weatherford School Board gained Dr. Clarke Denney, and the Administration Building was erected in 1967 at a cost of $50,000. It houses the office of Superintendent Marvin Easley, where he carries out his duties as academic head of the Weatherford School System.

On the first and third Monday of the month, the Weatherford Board of Education meets in the Administration Building. In 1967, the members of the board and Mr. Easley selected Richard Butler to fill the position of High School Principal. He was previously the principal at Sentinel, Oklahoma. Mr. Butler has served as the Southwest District Delegate for the O.E.A. He has said of our high school, "The students are basically the same in any school, but we have a greater percentage preparing for college."

Controlling the programs and activities of the elementary schools are Terry McCarty—principal, and Kenneth Johnson—assistant principal. This year Mr. McCarty is completing his twenty-third year with the Weatherford School System. He has served as coach, teacher, and principal. Mr. Johnson also coaches at the high school.

The new Administration Building of Weatherford Public Schools at 516 N. Broadway was constructed by Eldean's Construction Company in 1967 and designed by Huggins, Thompson, and Ball.

The cost, inclusive of rugs, drapes, furniture, fixtures, lower vault, contract, and architecture was approximately $50,000.00. It houses the office of the superintendent.

Language, Business Have Additions

Replacing one of its teachers, the English department added Mrs. Gerry Novak to its teaching staff. Mrs. Novak took over the responsibilities of instructing English, speech, and yearbook.

Selecting text books that will be due for replacement next year were junior high English teachers—Mrs. C. E. Allen, Mrs. Sherman Garrison, Mr. James Colclassure, and Mrs. Guy Brown, and high school instructors—Miss Maurene Stuckey, and Mrs. Gerry Novak. Mrs. Brown also teaches four classes of French, and Miss Stuckey has the responsibilities of teaching all junior and senior English classes.

Weatherford High's department of shorthand and business practice, under Mrs. Pauline Johnson, was modernized by the addition of one of the many innovations in the school's program this year. A Norelco Wireless Steno Recorder has found a permanent place in Mrs. Johnson's classroom.

The F.M. broadcasting unit, added at the close of the 1967-68 school year, was capable of running four speeds of shorthand lessons concurrently.

MRS. EVELYN BROWN—French I, II, English I.

MRS. PAULINE JOHNSON—Bookkeeping, Office Practice, Typing I, Shorthand, Senior Class Sponsor.

MRS. BETTY NOVAK—Yearbook, Speech I, II, English II.

Setting the wheels in motion is Mrs. Pauline Johnson, business teacher. As she starts one of the three tape recorders in the F.M. broadcasting unit, she can also hear what is being transmitted with a hand held receiver. This new teaching aid provides four concurrent courses of study in shorthand, and is also used as a transmitting machine for office practice. This Norelco Steno Trainer takes the place of four teachers.

Reviewing the 1968-69 competitive speech tournament schedule are Mrs. Betty Novak and Jon Burris.

Explaining the basics of English to her ninth grade class is Mrs. Ewardene Garrison.

Edna Allen—Civics, 8th English.

Edwardene Garrison—English I and II, 7th English, Counselor, 9th Grade Sponsor.

Maureen Stuckey—English III and IV, H. S. Cheerleaders' Sponsor.

WANDA RUSSELL—Typing I, J. H. and H. S. Girls' P.E., Health.

CARL SMITH—Oklahoma History, 8th History, 7th, 8th, 9th Boys P.E., Football, Wrestling.

JAMES COLCLASSURE—7th and 8th English, Oklahoma History, Civics, J. H. and H. S. Track.

Girls' Physical Education

Course Adds To Sport's Curriculum

Physical education has taken on a new aspect this year with the addition of Wanda Russell as Weatherford high school girls' physical education director. This was the first time in several years that a woman has filled a position on the coaches' staff, and it was partially an experiment. According to Mrs. Russell; however, it has worked out very well. Her classes gave an over-all look at physical education with instruction from gymnastics, volleyball, and basketball to modern dance theory and techniques.

"This year's sport's season had the finest athletes I have ever worked with. We worked together, played together, and won together," replied Coach Smith when asked why this season's record was so outstanding. "By changing my coaching and teaching methods, I became better acquainted with the students which created a relaxed student-teacher relationship."

Added to the faculty this year was James Colclassure, head track coach and assistant basketball and football coach. He marked this year as one of the most rewarding in his career.

Learning the fundamentals of soccer was one of the accomplishments of Mrs. Wanda Russell's high school girls' physical education class. The members of the class worked at perfecting their game at Milam Stadium at SWSC.

Making American History come to life for Gary Dodd, an eighth grader, is Mr. Carl Smith who also teaches a course in Oklahoma History.

Bill Richert, Brenda Vickers, Daryl Mast, Jeff Hamm, Richard Flaming, Jesse Kitchens and Stan DeFehr are applying mathematical skills taught by Mr. Letha Spann in her trigonometry-analytics class.

New Teacher Livens Math Department

RALPH CRALL—Algebra, Seventh Grade Math, Eighth Grade Class Sponsor.

ROGER PRYOR—Eighth Grade Math, Seventh Grade Geography, Junior High Boys Activities, High School Boys Activities, Assistant Football Coach, Junior High Baseball Coach.

Engrossed in a mass of products and reactions is Glendall Monigold, junior, discovering "liberation and collection by displacement of water."

Science Department

Course Emphasizes Lab Work

"In this course, you gain your knowledge through laboratory work," commented Amzi Gregory, junior high science instructor. His reply came in response to questions about a new course he taught this year, introductory physical science. The course was offered to freshmen this year.

Another course consisting mainly of lab work was taught by Mrs. Janet Norman. "Earth sciences is the course that seventh graders are naturally interested in," remarked Mrs. Norman about her class, just recently expanded with new equipment.

Dispensing scientific data to high school students this year was Harold Powers. Completing his third year in the Weatherford high school science department, Mr. Powers this year taught both biology and chemistry. Adding to the usual array of unusual scents coming from the chemistry lab, this year's class managed to set a dish of yellow phosphorus afire with the aid of a sunny window and a handy magnifying glass.

MR. AMZI GREGORY—8th Science, Physical Science, 7th Activity.

MR. HAROLD POWERS—Biology, Chemistry, Senior Class Sponsor.

MRS. JANET NORMAN—8th History, 7th Science, 7th Grade Class Sponsor.

MRS. MAXINE EDIGER—H.S. Music, Music I, Grade School Music.

MR. TERRY SEGRESS—H.S. Band, 7th Band, 8th & 9th Band, Music Theory.

MRS. DYANN KOCH—H.S. Art, 7th Art, 8th Art, 9th Art, Art Appreciation.

Fine Arts

Two Courses Complete First Year

Completing their first year in the curriculum of Weatherford high school were two art classes. Students with artistic interests were offered courses in art and art appreciation. Introducing students to all facets of art, Mrs. Dynn Koch taught history of art, oil painting, water colors, sculpture, two and three dimensional art, and carving.

Throughout the year, outstanding works from the classes were displayed in the school and public library. Citizens of Weatherford and neighboring communities had an opportunity to view works of the art department at the Art-O-Rama presented at the Weatherford public library.

Another of the fine arts offered at WHS was vocal music. Teaching students to read music, to project their voices, and to sing harmoniously was the task of Mrs. Maxine Ediger, high school and grade school music teacher. The glee club performed throughout the year at programs such as holiday assemblies.

Playing an important part in the activities and traditions of WHS was the high school band. These instrumentalists, directed by Mr. Terry Segress, performed at half-time during ball games and represented the school at the State Fair of Oklahoma and Southwestern State College's Homecoming.

Members of both band and art, Peggy Wilkenson and Brian Arney strive to complete a painting of the school mascot on the marching band's bass drum for the night of homecoming. This is the first time in several years that the mascot has accompanied the band this way.

Occupational Classes Charge Forward

The occupational department marched boldly onward with a new and exciting schedule. New facets of learning were adopted stimulating student interest, and encouraging personal growth.

In the middle of the "bustle" was Mrs. Avis Leach's home economics cottage. Education in home management, food, and creativity comprised the schedule.

Keeping in step with the fast pace of today's students, the library expanded its periodical room and acquired new encyclopedias. Tracking the books is always a full time job for Mrs. Helen Hackworth, librarian.

Mr. Lee's T&I class moved onward with the construction of an all electric, three bedroom house.

Moving into the new agriculture building was the highlight of the year for Mr. Edward Tippens. With the new equipment and facilities the department was able to expand its curriculum. Projects for the year included a survey team which surveyed the campus grounds and marked off the track field. Adding a touch of creativity, one group welded a modern art project, as Mr. Tippens stated, "As the times change . . . we change our plans."

Listening intently to the "dos" and "don'ts" of journalism are Donna DuBois and Sharon Jones.

MRS. AVIS LEACH—Home Economics I, II, III.

MR. EDWARD TIPPENS—Agriculture I, II, III, Agriculture Shop, Junior Class Sponsor.

MRS. DOLORES TANNER—World History, American History, Junior Class sponsor.

MRS. CECIL MORRIS—Problems of Democracy, Sociology, American History, Junior Class sponsor.

MR. DOYLE BERGNER—Seventh grade Geography, Shop 1, Driver's Education, Junior High Boys Activity, High School Boys Activity.

Revolution Strikes History Department

The old cut and dried version of the history class is seen no more, for a new revolution has taken place in Weatherford High School. The first change came when Mrs. Dolores Tanner began teaching, bringing with her, new ideas for the history department.

Another big change made was in teaching techniques. Replacing "read" and "write" were "do" and "see," the main objective being "experience." Experience as to what history has been, is and will be.

One of the big events on the calendar was the pre-election staged in November. This gave students an opportunity to see how a president is elected and at the same time added spark and enthusiasm to the class.

One ambitious class headed a project of constructing a four by eight topographical map of the United States. Upon its completion, the map was dedicated to the history department by the members of the class.

Included on the year's schedule was a trip to the Arapaho Court, taken by the ninth grade civics class. Seeing and watching the law in action was "experience."

Yes . . . "the times, they are a changin'."

An invitation to England was given Andy Wilks and Terry Hamburger, during a friendly chat, by resource speakers Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ryder.

S.C.I.S. and SRA Stress Continues

Elementary schools today are quite different than they were when this year's seniors were in grade school. Today, there are many different programs for beginning students in such fields as speech, reading, and phonics.

Two of the programs used in the elementary schools this year were Science Curricular Improvement Study and SRA reading. S.C.I.S. is mainly stressed in the first, second, and third grades. It is a scientifically designed program aimed at increasing the young student's vocabulary. SRA, a nationally known reading program, is designed to allow each student to work at his or her own speed, then advance to another of the 15 different levels as their rate increases. Each level is a different color to increase the interest of these youngsters in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

Bruce Walker has all the help he needs as he strives to complete his Halloween decorations for the classroom. Bruce is a third grader under Mrs. Edna Mae Willis.

Teaching at the West Elementary School are these six faculty members. Standing are: Mrs. Mary Brooks, first grade; Mrs. Jimmy Kelley, reading; Mrs. Olene Tyler, third grade. Sitting are: Mrs. Bernice Sensintaffar, fourth grade; Mrs. Geraldine Sauer, fifth grade; Mrs. Goldie Hays, second grade. These teachers prepare young students for the years ahead.

Among the many school activities in Mr. Kenneth Johnson's sixth grade class is creative art. Here Mr. Johnson participates with his students in making soap carvings.

Since Halloween is a perfect time for decorating classrooms at East Elementary, Marla Ferguson is constructing her personal Halloween ornaments for Mrs. Edna Willis' third grade room.

With the task to observe the "unexpected" in their classroom, East Elementary teachers found the 1968-69 years rewarding and stimulating. East Elementary faculty members are: Standing: Mr. Terry McCarty, principal; Mrs. Madge Jorden, fourth; Mrs. Kay Wheeler, first; Mrs. Edna Willis, third; Mrs. Pearl Burcham, first; Mrs. Arlene Boone, fourth; Mrs. Rose Smith, second; Mrs.

Twyla Sanders, fifth; Mr. Tom Gage, sixth. Sitting: Mrs. Sue Atchley, first; Mrs. Florence Pair, fifth; Mrs. Jimmy Ruth Kelley, reading; Mrs. Fern Echols, sixth; Mrs. Lucille North, third; Mrs. Ruth Williams, kindergarten; Mrs. Susan Joiner, kindergarten; Mrs. Virgie Bryan, second.

Starting off the year with a 100 percent examination score for school buses was Darrel Kitchens.

Non-Teaching Staff

Additions Reflect School Growth

Mrs. Velma Bradley, supervisor, and her cafeteria staff handled the planning of school meals, ordering of food, cooking, and serving of meals for approximately 180 students daily. Cafeteria workers also served at business luncheons for faculty and guests.

The responsibility of maintaining school buildings and grounds was that of custodians, John Duncan and Lafayette Owens. Under the supervision of Harold Bradley, the custodians kept the grounds clean and attractive throughout the year. They also repaired broken equipment, kept the school warm or cool during classes and helped in the auditorium during plays and special programs.

Transporting students to and from school and various extracurricular activities were the hard working WHS bus drivers.

Helping Mrs. Delma Devine in her office work were students who gave one out of their six hours daily.

Mrs. Emma Jarvis, Mrs. Mae Arndt, Mrs. Velma Bradley and Mrs. Ada Thompson are preparing cookies for a faculty luncheon to be held in Thompson cafeteria.

Studying the agenda for the day are office workers Stan Templeton, Cheryl Hamm, Therese Jarvis, Richard Flaming, Chris LaMunyon, and Mrs. Delma Devine.

Preparing to leave the high school to purchase equipment for the class rooms and buildings are the Weatherford high school custodians, Mr. John Duncan, Mr. Harold Bradley, and Mr. Lafayette Owens.

Organizations

Attired in their new red and black uniforms with white overlays, band members for the 1968-69 school year are: Front Row: Tim Goss, Ann Larue Bottom, Carol Murphy, Jane Hassinger, Jo Short, and Debbie Petrowsky. Second Row: Rosalie Hatfield, Steve Moses, Kay Brown, Ruth Ann Witcher, Debbie Lanier, Linda Vaughan, Janice Friesen, Marilyn Sanders, Jean Jones, and

Band Morale Boosted

New Uniforms Brighten Band, Spirit

Filling ranks, files, and concert formations was made more enjoyable this year for high school musicians with the aid of new, modern band uniforms. The uniforms were purchased with funds provided by the PTA and various other contributors.

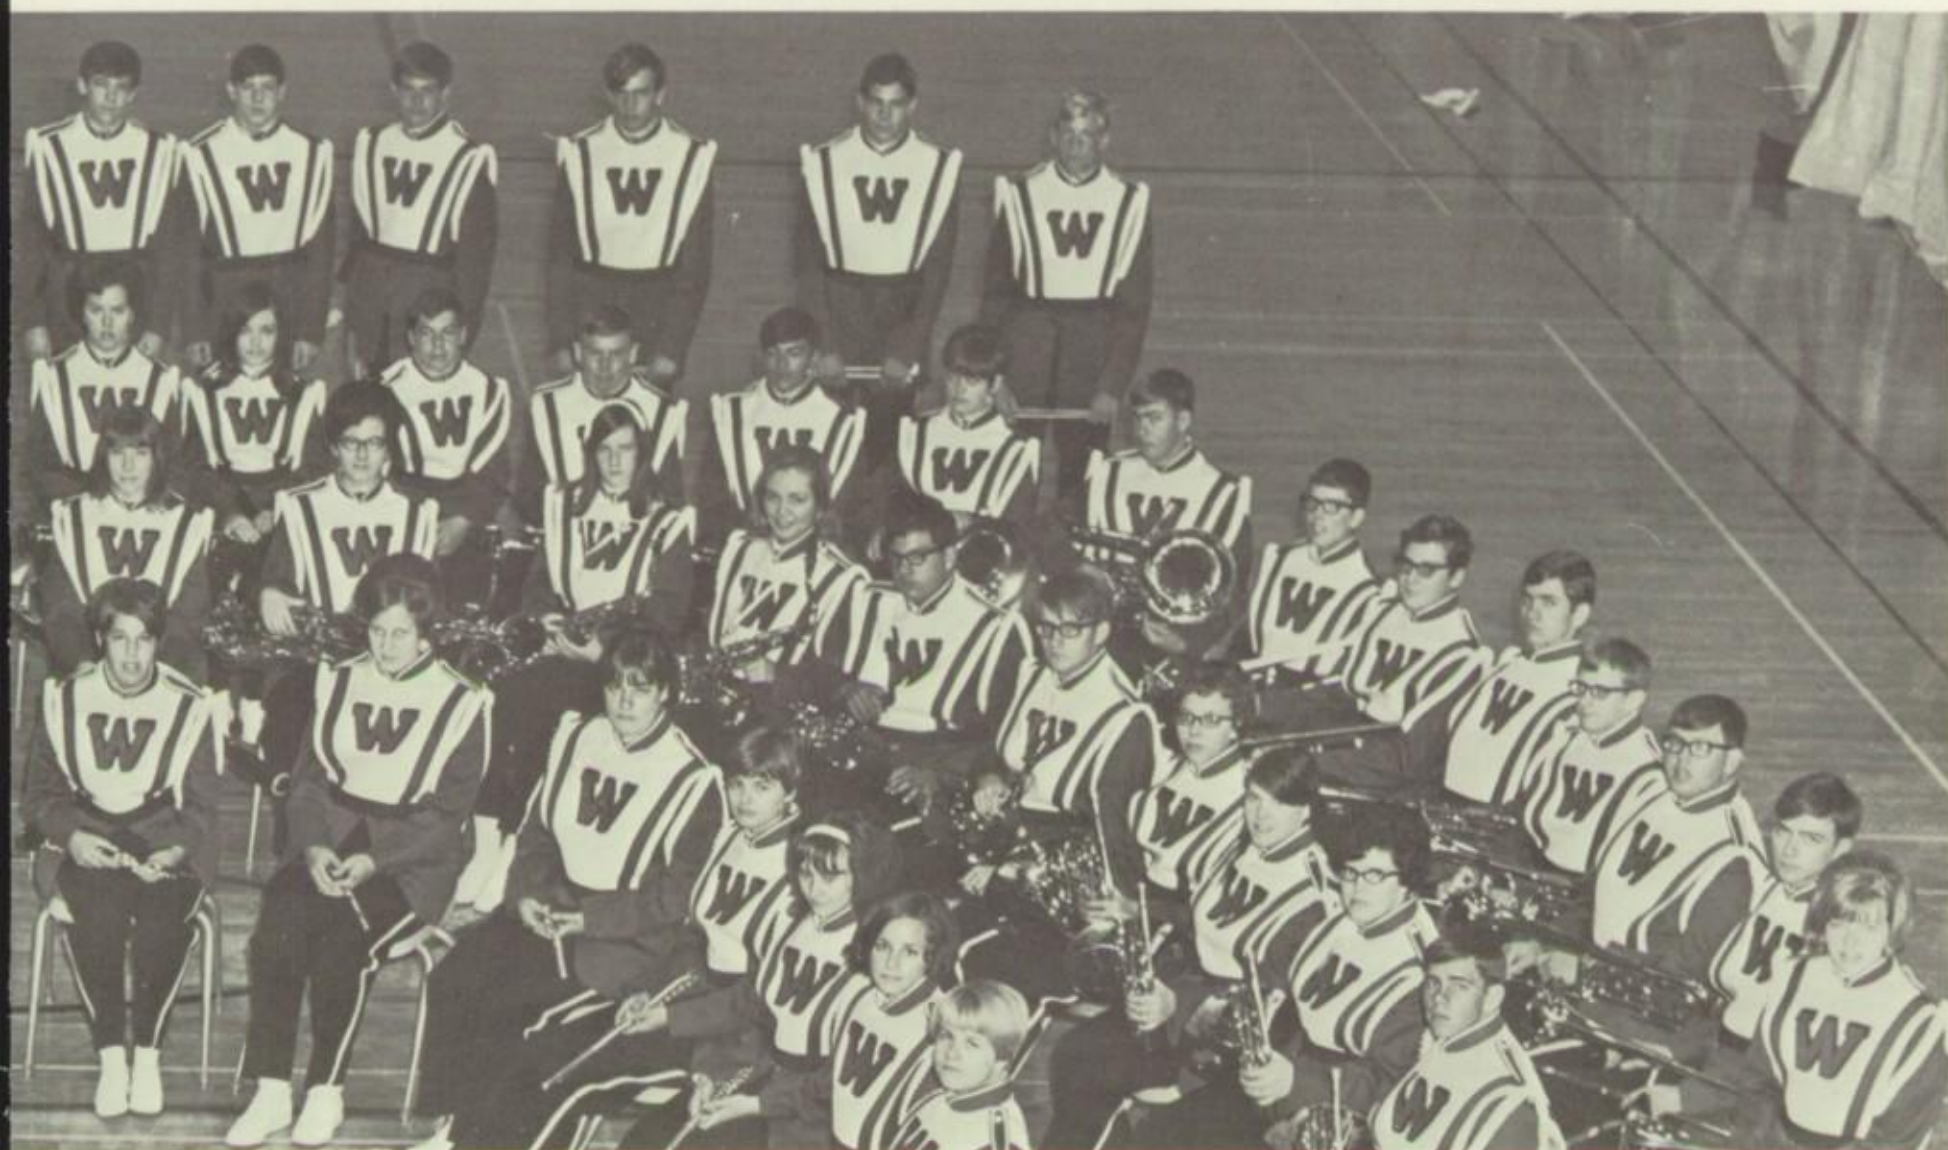

The Weatherford high school band represents the largest number of students in a single organization. Always handy, the band boosted spirit and furnished entertainment at all home football games.

Many mornings during marching season, collegians would be awakened by a serenade from the band as it met for a preschool practice on the college's baseball field. Under the direction of Terry Segress, the sixty-four member band entertained at meetings, school activities, and their own concerts.

"Segress's sixty" not only added musical enjoyment to the stages, campuses, and playing fields on which they performed, but also gave a bright gay look to them in their new uniforms.

Guardian of the "high and dry," this bass horn has found a friend in Andy Wilks, a musician in standard equipment; boots, an easily removable coat, and a grumbling disposition. With wet grass, one must find a seat wherever he can.

The Weatherford High School twirlers and drum majorette for the 1968-69 school year are Jo Ellen Short, Kathy Smalley, Ann Larue Bottom, and Peggy Wilkinson. The twirlers led by Ann Bottom meet after school in the band room to discuss and plan their next routine which will be presented at the Weatherford High School football homecoming. The twirlers and drum majorette participated in the queen crowning ceremonies, during the halftime of the Weatherford-Sayre game. The twirlers, who represent each of the high school classes, were selected by band director Terry Segress and the Senior twirlers of the previous year: Dianne Short, Leigh Anne Kilpatrick and Nancy Drinkwater. Performing flawlessly under the watchful eyes of Weatherford's football fans, the twirlers wore uniforms which they designed and created.

Members who made their debut at Phillips University's jazz festival are: trombones—James Hooper, Donna Kliever, Drew Snider, James Sauer, and Steve Sisney; trumpets—Tom Tippens, Janet Dickey, Richard Short, Terry Hamburger, Brenda Vickers, and Larry Owens; piano—Harriett Blair; saxophones—Sharla Inman, Tim Goss, Ronnie Doyal, David Hanson, and Stan DeFehr; drums—Brian Arney; bass—Tom Wildman.

Stage Band Added To Curriculum

The Weatherford High School stage band, under the supervision of Terry Segress, has been one of the most active organizations in high school. They presented several concerts for students and by request from the community they performed for local civic groups. The stage band also entertained at home basketball games. The band attended a jazz festival at Phillips University, Enid on October 19. Improving with each performance this group of outstanding musicians participated in stage band contests and attended Tri-State music festival at Phillips University in May. Working hard and devoting much time and effort the band achieved a successful season.

Versatility is the trade mark of several Weatherford High School stage band students. An example? Stan DeFehr is replacing Steve Moses' position at the baritone saxophone because of Steve's disabling hand injury.

High School Band officers are: Stan DeFehr, president; Terry Hamburger, student council representative; Peggy Wilkinson, secretary-treasurer; and Debbie Petrowsky, vice president. The officers are working out a point system for this year which is used by the high school band to determine grades. By this system, the members can also earn a band letter. Band officers report that this is the second year such a system has been used and it works extremely well.

When the entire marching band is not able to attend out of town football games, Mr. Terry Segress takes some of the members as a pep band. During the excitement of the game Terry Hamburger finds it hard to hit those high notes.

Two Bands Instead Of One?

Why was the school fight song, "Victors," heard coming from the band room two class periods this year instead of one? The answer to the mystery was that the junior high band had been divided into two separate bands.

The band composed of eighth and ninth grade students, made their marching debut at the junior high queen coronation football game on October 8. During concert season the band presented a "Pop's" Concert, as well as participated in the annual spring concert and the district instrumental contest held at Altus in March.

"Oh, it's a fun band!" was Mr. Terry Segress' description of the small seventh grade band. These 35 young musicians participated in various activities to increase their musical ability and appreciation for band.

High-stepping twirlers, Kerry Leach, Tricia Schutes, and Nancy Tindel assisted Vicki Dawson, drum majorette, in leading the junior high band in their marching performances.

Weatherford High School junior, Gary Shelton, is prepared for any type of weather. When marching begins at 7:45 a.m. each band member must be able to cope with rain or shine.

Thirty-eight vivacious members of which the girl's membership more than doubles the boy's membership compose the seventh grade band of Thompson Junior High. The members are: First Row: Lisa Morris, Roxanna Olson, Gwendolyn Reynolds, Darla Ollenburger, Carolyn Walker, Mary Christensen, Susan Starrett. Second Row: Jan Jones, Chris Arney, Pamela Switzer, LaDeana Murray, Roberta Heap of Birds, Candy Jarvis, Mike Kelley, Deb-

Industrious Council Buys Trophy Case

Eight o'clock every Wednesday morning—rain, shine, sleet or snow—fourteen junior high school leaders assembled to constitute the Weatherford junior high student council of the 1968-69 school year.

Meeting in the junior high school building with Zane Bergen, junior high school principal, as its sponsor, the council's year consisted of projects, goals and the sponsoring of activities.

With profits from the annual October magazine sales a trophy case was purchased for the junior high building. Other money-making projects included the sale of pennants which was sponsored to boost athletic team support and to strengthen school spirit.

Sponsoring dress-up days and assemblies proved to be the council's largest projects. Students achieving outstanding goals were recognized by the Citizen of the Month awards and at recognition assemblies. Holiday assemblies were not only sponsored by the group but were presented by its members as well.

Officers of the junior high student council are Jimmy Johnston, treasurer; Nancy Tindel, vice-president; Barbara Arney, secretary; and Gary Amen, president. The students were installed after obtaining a petition of twenty-five names which enabled them to run in the election.

Student Council eyes are focused on Gary Amen, junior high student council president, who has the responsibility of presiding over the 1968-69 student council activities, projects and goals. Included in the council is one representative from each of the organizations as Future Homemakers of America, as well as the

Council Publishes Monthly Newsletter

Twenty-three student council members set out in September to activate school life, and with the help of Richard Butler, Weatherford high school principal, their goal was accomplished.

Powder puff football and baseball games sponsored by the council to raise money offered WHS students vigorous entertainment. Council sponsored Career Day gave students of Weatherford High School and surrounding schools an opportunity to plan for the future as they attended various lectures.

Christmas and Easter assemblies, a play during National Education Week, and pep assembly skits were presented to the students under council sponsorship.

Attempts to better inform WHS included the revision of the student handbook and a newsletter containing information on council proceedings.

Members attended student council district workshops to gain new ideas on student government. Weatherford was elected treasurer of the district and held all offices in the sub-district conference.

Richard Short, student council president, voices his opinion on council proceedings at one of the regular Tuesday morning meetings. Under his direction, the council sponsored holiday assemblies, provided student entertainment and published a monthly student council newsletter.

Junior High Attends Choral Festival

Junior high glee club, directed by Mrs. Maxine Ediger, attended the Junior High Choral Festival on November 16 at Southwestern State College, and the district Vocal Music Contest, March 14 and 15 at Altus.

Officers for the forty-four member organization were Cherokee Clark, president; Kristie Sawatsky, vice-president; Connie Parrett, secretary-treasurer; and Sandra Butler, student council representative.

Looking into the music files for contest material are Cheryl Whitehead, Cherokee Clark, and Denise Wardell. First event for the Junior High Glee Club was the Junior High Choral Festival on November 16, at Southwestern State College, Weatherford.

Demonstrating the techniques they have learned in music class are Marcia Eaton, RuVae Bryan, Linda Nix, and director Maxine Ediger. Substituting for High School Chorus was a class in Vocal Music where the girls learned techniques and methods of chorus, duet, and solo vocal music. Members displayed their talents at a local music festival.

Freshmen Organize Separate Chapter

For the first time in several years the freshman members of the Future Homemakers of America were organized as a separate chapter from the high school. Both chapters kept busy under the direction of advisor Mrs. Avis Leach.

Activities of the year included Halloween and Christmas parties, a "Father-Mother Dinner" and the annual end-of-year school picnic at Roman Nose State Park.

Special meetings attended were the Sub-district Leadership Conference at SWSC and the State Rally in Oklahoma City.

Linda Webb of Clinton, Northwest District vice-president, highlighted the year by visiting the September installation of officers of the Weatherford chapter.

Boarding the bus for the annual state FHA rally at Oklahoma City's Civic Center Music Hall, March 28-29, are Debbie Lanier, Glenda Vickers and Rhonda Willard. To qualify to go to the rally, members must participate in outside activities and comply to certain "set" standards.

FHA Plans For The Future

Clothing construction, home management and hand crafts were some of the class projects for the eighty-six high school home economics girls in Mrs. Avis Leach's home economics I, II and III classes.

Freshmen in home economics were given class activities which were appropriate for their age and experience and at the time laid a foundation for more advanced studies. Their activities included making a simple cotton garment, studying grooming and family relationships, babysitting and preparing breakfasts and snacks.

Second-year girls studied the same basic techniques of sewing, cooking, and relationships, but went into greater detail in subjects of dating etiquette, house care and principles of cookery.

Members of the homemaking III class worked with knitting, furniture antiquing, ceramics, decoupaging and clothing construction. The class also studied marriage, family finances, child development and nutritious cooking for two.

Looking at the Simplicity pattern book, Carol Bolsinger, Vicki Hyde and Linda Hubert select the best pattern for their home and school projects. The girls will receive a grade for their choice of style and their ability to construct a dress that will be best suited for a particular occasion. These girls know that a stitch in time saves nine.

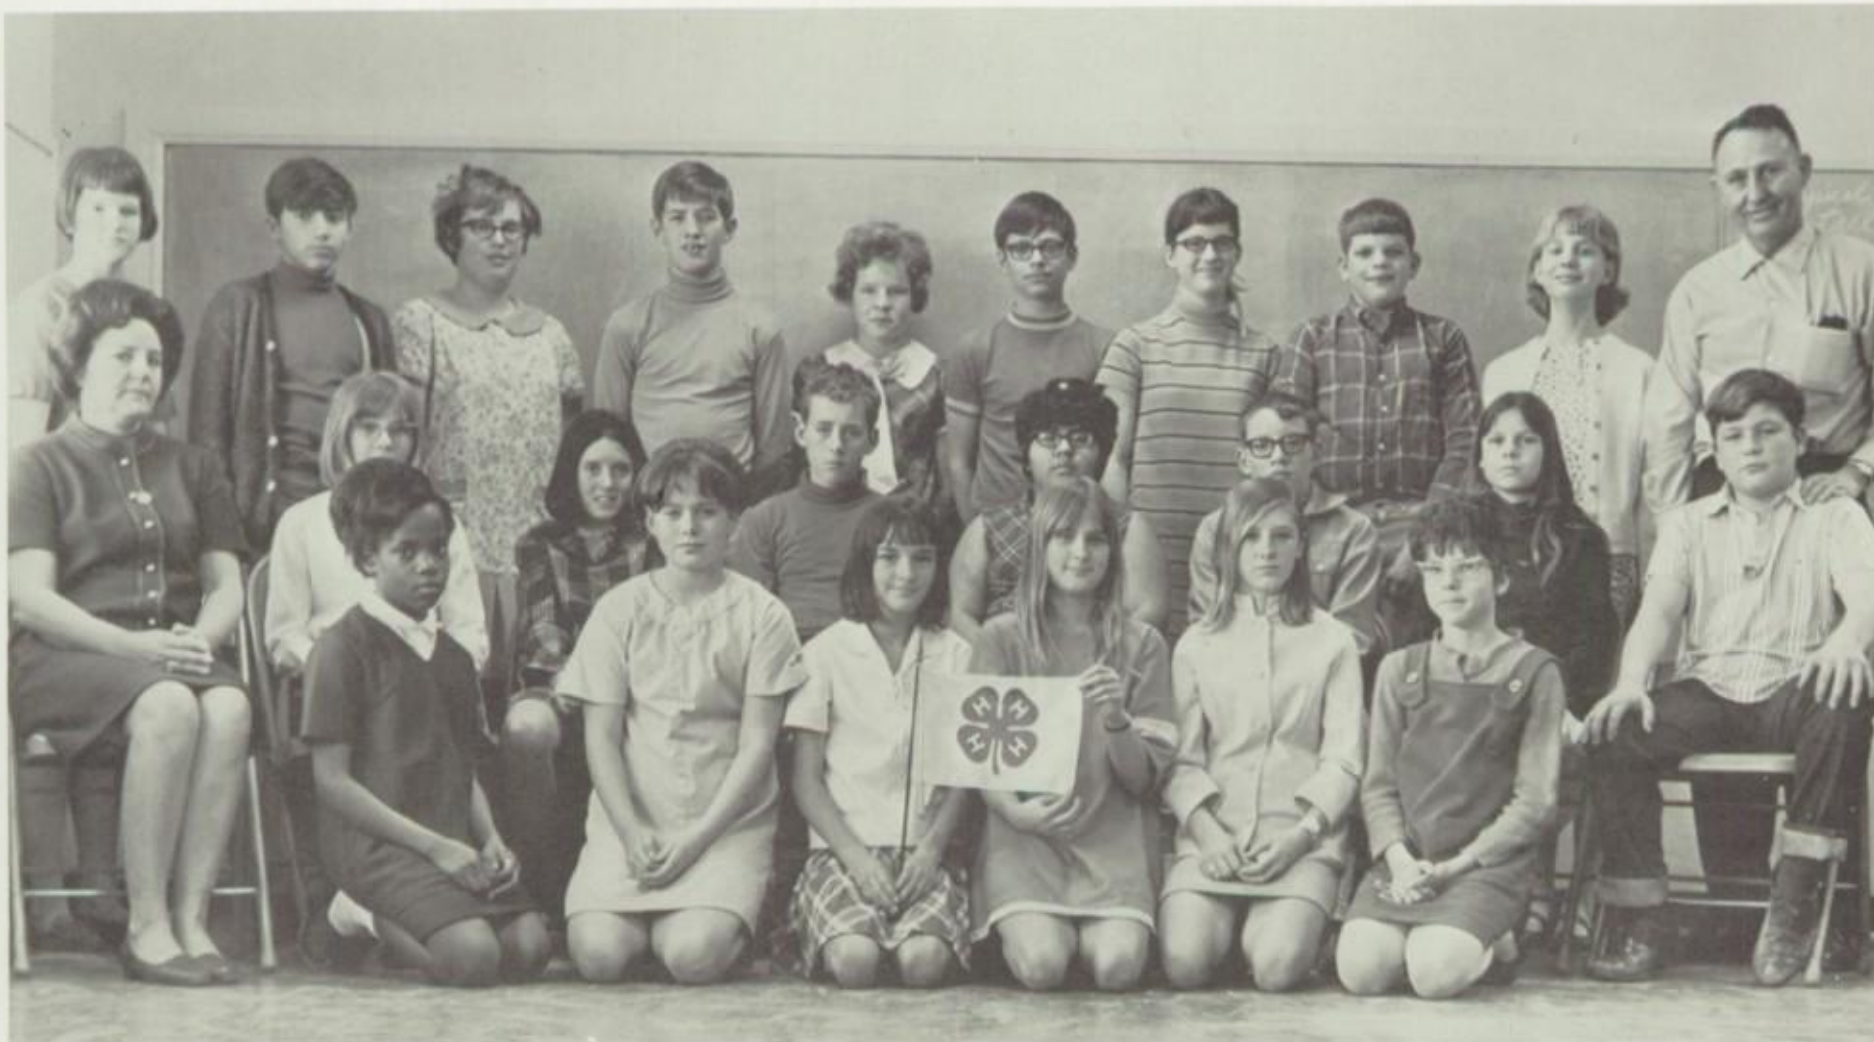

Busy hands are happy hands and David Chapman, Jackie Pitzer, Clint Wood, E. L. Sikes and Steve Meek know that building houses in T & I class can really be exciting and educational. With Mr. A. L. Lee as teacher and sponsor, the boys learn the art of building houses. This year the class is constructing a modern brick home which includes three bedrooms and two baths, for former Weatherford high school alumnus, Merle Short.

Resting after a hard afternoon's work are Kenneth Sandlin, Ricky Friesen, Andy Sauer, Marshall Tindel, Jim Maddox and Tom Nix. Admiring their almost completed home on Arizona street, these T&I boys know the real meaning of hard work. After inspecting the home, they are entirely satisfied and happy that they have acquired the knowledge of how to build a house.

4-H, T&I

Provide Mental And Physical Exercise

On the first Wednesday of each month at 2:30-3:25 4-H club members were hard at work with either demonstrations, speeches or instructional work by the adult leaders. The 4-H members for this year were (left to right), front row: Lynda Gathers, Jim Swanson, Darla Ollenburger, David Crawl, Paula Johnston, Wayne Chapman, Mary Christensen, Roger Hunnicutt, Mary Harrall, and Mr. Alton "Pat" Patrick. Middle Row: Mrs. Graybill, Margaret Johnston, Debra Sudderth, Berry Linsey, Enriqueta Guajardo, Stephen Stagell, LaDonna Tompkins, and Eugene Harris. Front Row: Sallie Murphy, LaDeanna Murray, Twyla Graybill, Debbie Crowl, Rhonda Ogan, and Cheryl Sauer. In the fields of 4-H, the members had many areas in which to exhibit their accomplishments. They were offered the opportunity to enter in a contest that could have won them a trip to Washington. A four-day convention was held in Stillwater, Oklahoma, where the members could show their exhibits and ideas to other members of the state.

Leading the Weatherford Future Farmers of America for this year were Tommy Tippens, treasurer; Rodney Neufeld, reporter; Lynn Hawkins, vice-president; Robbye Jones, president; Tim Goss, secretary; and Gary Pitts, sentinel. The boys are discussing their trip to Kansas City.

FFA Wins First At County Fair

Traveling to county and state stock shows, surveying land, and preparing animals for exhibition were some of this year's activities of the Weatherford chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

The highlight of this busy year was a trip to the 1968 National Convention in Kansas City, Kansas on October 16, 17, 18. Other extracurricular interests of the chapter were studying various aspects of leadership and character development, organized recreation and building citizenship and patriotism.

Officers for this year were Robbye Jones, president; Lynn Hawkins, vice-president; Tim Goss, secretary; Tommy Tippens, treasurer; Gary Pitts, sentinel; and Rodney Neufeld, reporter. The boys were sponsored by Ed Tippens, vocational agricultural instructor.

The FFA established a reputation for themselves by winning many of the top honors at stock shows. For the first time in many years, Weatherford Future Farmers succeeded in capturing a First Place in shop and welding at the Custer County Fair at Clinton.

When the boys were not busy with their projects, they attended regular classes to learn about animal nutrition and health, plant sciences, and dairy products.

In all their procedures, in school and out, they try to live their motto: "Learning to Do, Doing to Earn, Learning to Live, Living to Serve."

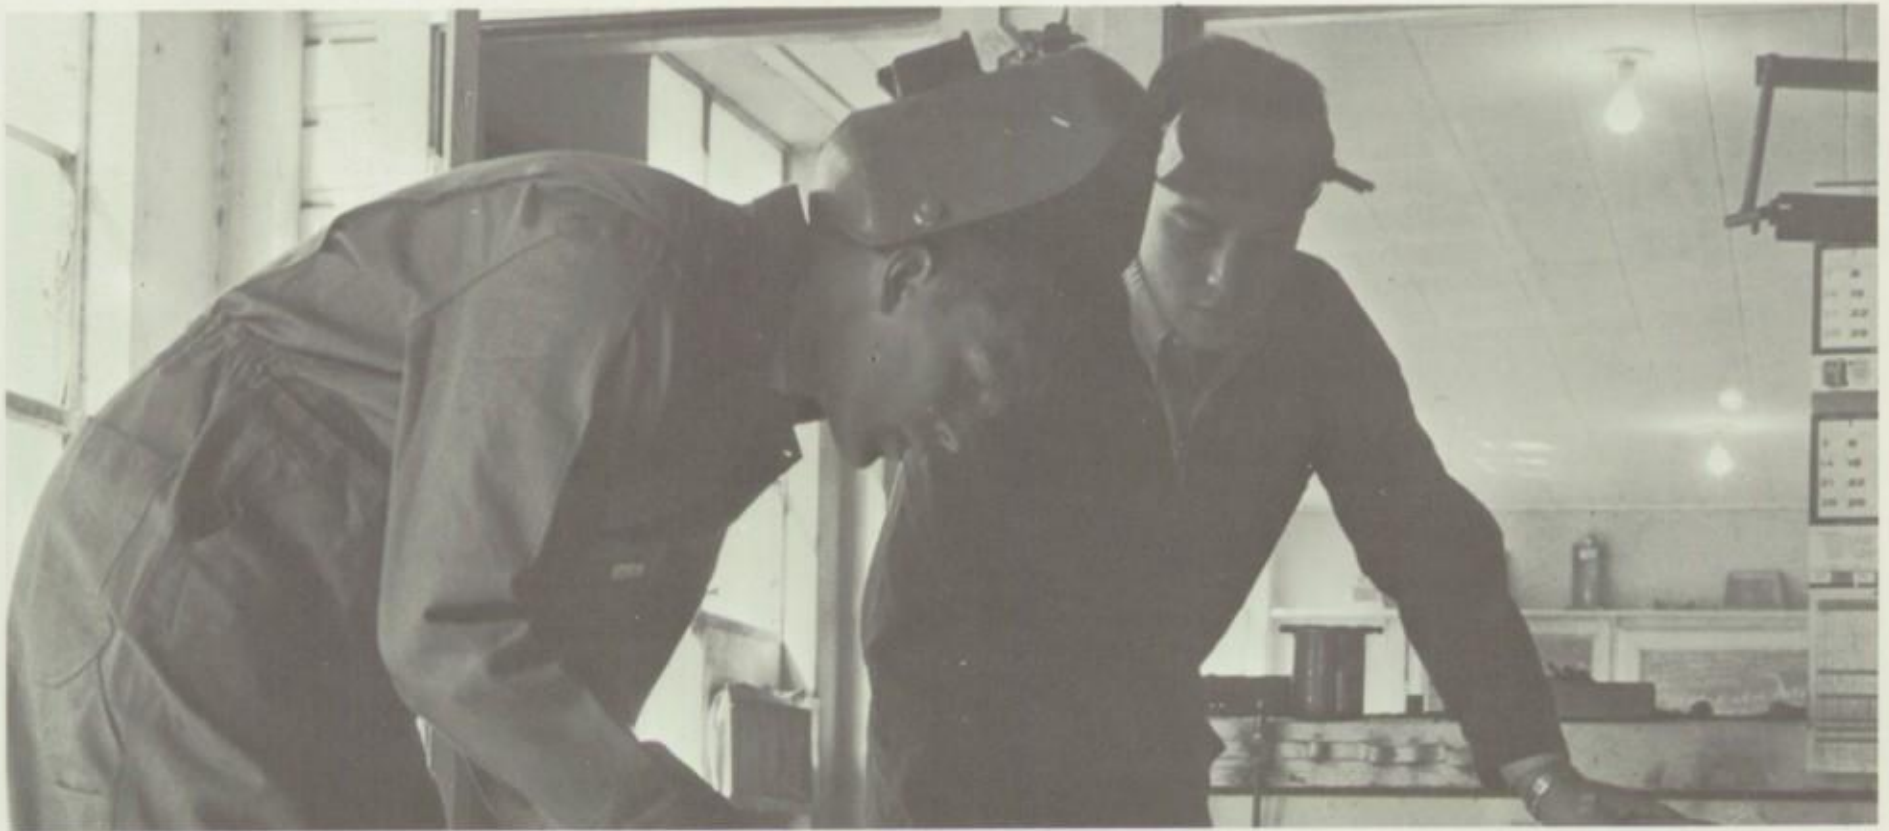

Pondering over the year in which she reigns as chapter queen for the Weatherford chapter of the Future Farmers of America is Miss Peggy Steiner. Peggy was crowned at a FFA banquet at the close of last year. This year she participated in the state FFA contest in Oklahoma City and has brought much pride to this year's FFA members.

Warren Kliever, Doug Tippens, Martin Collier, and Matt Wynn are learning to read a traveling rod and to check elevation by running a contour line across this open field.

Phil Hale and Gary Pitts are showing the different techniques of cattle judging. Nearly all the boys helped with part of the judging at local stock shows this current year.

These boys, Matt Wynn and Randy Devine, learn the different kinds of welds that can be used in the field of agriculture. These welds will soon be turned in as assignments in agricultural shop.

Welding projects in the past have been welding piping together to construct various items such as cattle feeders and pick-up racks.

N. H. S. Donates Gifts To Rest Home

Each year the Weatherford high school National Honor Society has in-school and out-of-school service projects. This year NHS members decided to offer their assistance to a teacher for two hours each semester. The object of this was to promote better understanding between the teachers and their students. For their out-of-school project members donated gifts to the new rest home in Weatherford owned by Mrs. Lola Little Bird.

Adding to their good deeds NHS members honored the faculty and administration with an annual tea during March in the Home Economics Cottage. This gave the students an opportunity to be reacquainted with their teachers from the junior high school and elementary grades. The main purpose of this tea was to bring teachers closer to their honor students.

This year, as in the past, NHS'ers have met in the homes of members. The first of the five meetings was held at the home of Brenda Vickers on October 4, 1968.

The National Honor Society members are nominated on a scholastic average of 3.5. They are selected by a faculty committee for citizenship, leadership and service to their school.

Play cast for 1968 production of "A Handful of Rainbows" is Sue Sylvester—Honey Houston, Brian Arney—Steffan Barcola, Janet Dickey—Carla Ferguson, Kenneth Sandlin—Tommy Grant, Ricky Friesen—Howard Wexler, Kathy Smalley—Laura Williams, Bonnie Schomp—Meg Bradford, Matt Wynn—Jeff Dona-van, Linda Nix—Rebecca Starr, and Deloras Ramsey—Marian Bradford. The play was held on December 16 at the high school auditorium for the public. It was presented to raise funds for speech contests' materials and activities.

Speech Class Performs For School, Contests

For a preview of this year's forensic season, the speech troop attended a "Demonstration Day" at Northwest Classen High School, Oklahoma City. Students attending the pre-contest event, representing Weatherford High School, were Cheryl Hamm, Linda Nix, Therese Jarvis, and Jeff Hamm.

Opening American Education Week, the speech II class presented a one-act play entitled "Cathy's Choice." The speech I class presented the play, "A Handful of Rainbows," to raise funds for speech contests.

Spring again brought out the drama in members of the speech classes as another play was presented to raise funds for the junior class.

The speech department, directed this year by Mrs. Gerry Novak, demonstrated for the student body the types of material used in a forensic tournament at an assembly at the end of school.

Norris Payne, Therese Jarvis, Randy Devine and Wylene Lay are taking part in a panel discussion on the topic "How to Decrease Illiteracy in the United States." They are all members of Mrs. Novak's Speech II class.

Journalists Record Accomplishments

The sixteen members of the Weatherford High School journalism department were kept busy every day this year. As in the past, each member was required to write an editorial, a newspaper article and a feature story each week. Also by the end of the year each member was required to have had published 115 column inches in the "Weatherford News."

Mrs. A. J. Hackworth oversees all the operations in journalism as her staff covers grade, junior high and high school activities, and includes news coverage on organizations, classes and all phases of school life.

The journalism staff as the public relation medium of the high school, likes to "swap" ideas with other schools by exchanging newspapers.

"Senior Spotlights" and feature stories about new teachers were written by the journalism department, and appeared in "Eagle Echoes," the high school page of the "Weatherford News" each week.

Photographers Tom Wildman and Jon Burris with editors Dixie Waters and Becky Shelton have the task of selecting the appropriate pictures to send to the news office along with the news articles for printing.

Mrs. A. J. Hackworth and the journalism staff pause to take a break and to review the past articles in "Eagle Echoes" which were published in the last edition of the "Weatherford News." The members work diligently to compose articles which include "Senior Spotlights," to send to the "Weatherford News" to meet deadlines on Friday. On Monday they receive the proofsheets for double-checking. This section of journalism includes standing: Andy Wilks, Steve Sisney, Stan Templeton, Donna DuBois, Mrs. A. J. Hackworth, sponsor, RuVae Bryan, Maureen McRorey, and sitting are: Norris Payne, Sharon Jones, Callie Strong, Cathie McPhetridge, Anita Harrall and Bonnie Friesen.

Reviewing pages that will go to the printer on the last deadline are sitting: Pam Kitchens, Steve Sisney, Jo Short, Andy Wilks, Peggy Steiner, Evelyn Flannery, and Norris Payne. Standing are Bonnie Schomp, Dawn Christensen, Jeanne Bailey, and Janet Dickey.

New Course Adds Exercise, Work, Play

EXERCISE—WORK—PLAY! Physical education for the junior and senior high school girls was added to the curriculum this year. This course included extensive study in a number of areas.

During the first six weeks of the year, time was spent on exercising, concentrating on improving physical appearance and improving mental alertness of the girls. They also spent four weeks learning the techniques, skills, and arts of playing soccer and were introduced to the sport of volleyball by first learning the fundamentals of the sport. A program on physical education was presented in January for the Parent-Teacher's Association. Phases of gymnastics, softball, and tennis concluded the year's activities.

Virginia Touchstone practices some of the routines of modern dance she learned in physical education.

Mrs. Russell demonstrates to Sue Sylvester, one of the many girls enrolled in physical education, some of the various techniques of the theory of ballet.

Athletics

Discussing a new game strategy at Hennessey are head coach Carl Smith and Stan Templeton, quarterback.

Football

Practice And Hard Work Pay Off

Hobart's halfback loses the football as he hits the ground in a pile up of Eagle defenders, two of which are scrambling for the ball still suspended in mid-air.

Trying to stop Hobart's drive toward another touchdown and a decisive victory in the state playoffs, quarterback Stan Templeton snatches a well thrown pass from the hands of a Hobart end.

Frank Sikes heads across the goal line as the third Sayre pursuer makes a desperate dive for his ankles and misses, giving the Weatherford Eagles another six points toward a victory.

Fans Show Enthusiasm

After fighting through a tough season, the Eagle football team was beaten by Hobart in the first round of the state playoffs.

Although the Eagles lost their season opener to Clinton, the Eagles stopped the state champion Tornadoes from scoring in the second half. Winning the next two on the schedule by considerable margins, the Eagles put Thomas and Geary on the victory list.

Fourth on the schedule was Hobart. After winning the state championship last year, Hobart was ranked number one in class B. Breaking the game open in the first half, the Eagles changed Hobart's rating and added the Bearcat team to the list.

The Eagles put all other teams on the schedule on the win list except Watonga. After the Eagles had beaten Hobart, Watonga held the number one rating in class B.

Playing Hobart to a 13-13 tie, the Bearcats advanced to the playoffs on a 5-3 penetration count. Hobart went on to win the state championship in class B. Ending with an 8-2-1 record, the Eagles had one of their best seasons in many years.

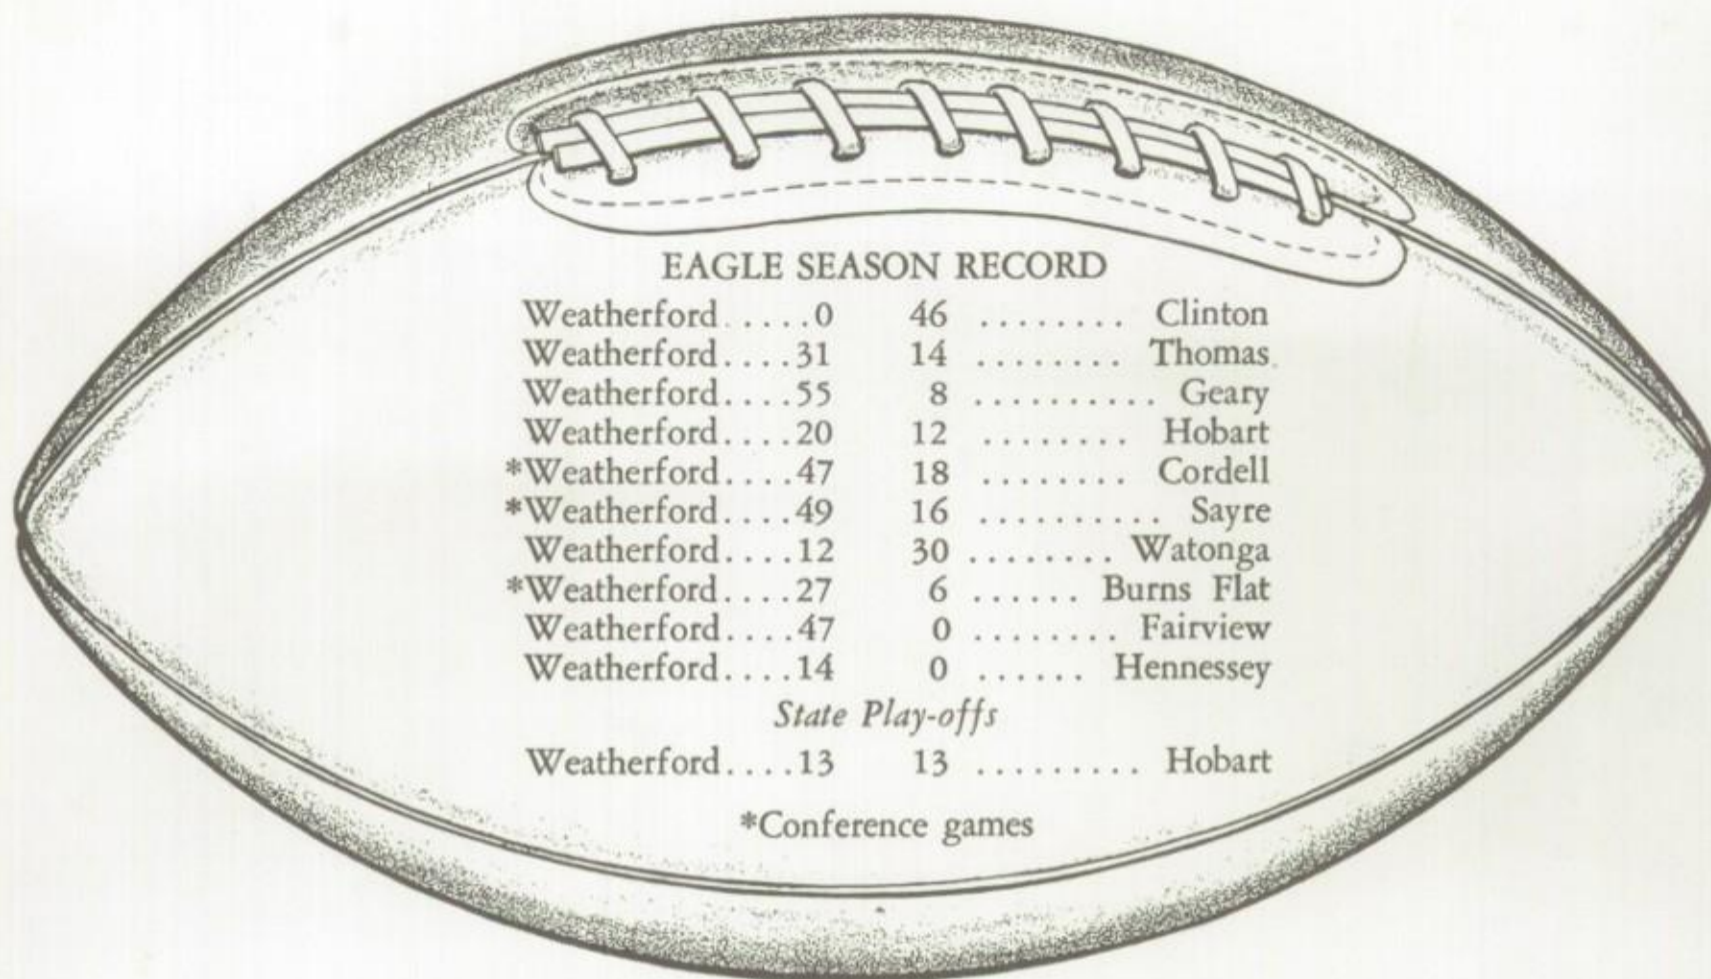

Pausing a moment for reflections on a busy night is 1968 Football Queen Peggy Steiner. The seniors earned the privilege of electing the candidates by winning the football ticket sales. Attendants were Therese Jarvis and Linda Vaughan.

Pam Penner, Linda Nix, Deloras Ramsey, Brenda Smith, Sue Sylvester, and Diane Pitts work hard to keep spirit high as they cheer the Eagles on to a winning season that W.H.S. won't forget.

The big "E" of the Weatherford Eagles was feared and respected by many of the opposing teams. The conference championship team won the majority of their games, produced several All-District players, and one All-State player.

The Eaglet football team campaigned its way to a 6-1 overall record. The Eaglets won all games but the last which was lost to Snyder on a 26-24 score. The record is just the reverse of last year. Pictured above are front row: Keith Jones, Butch Jarvis, Jim Willis, Jake Wright, Gary Dodd, Larry Schutes, Danny Killman, Ron Stotts, Bob Bailey, Mike Washa, and managers Larry Adler and Kim Arney. The second row consists of Erich Olds, Shawn Lockstone, Lamont Woody, Jim Johnston, Floyd

Record Reversed Over Previous Year

Running room was scarce all year for opponents of the Eaglets as this Sayre runner would testify. The Eaglets did well in smothering offensive attempts as they allowed the opposing teams only sixty-six points while they ran for a total of 192 points.

Being escorted to her throne by Charles Killman is Candy Jarvis, 1968 junior high football queen. Other candidates chosen by their respective class were Jo Martin and Susan Petrowsky, seventh graders.

Basketball

Eagles Oppose "AA" and "AAA" Schools

Although the Eagle basketball team was on the losing end most of the time, their schedule against AA and AAA schools was not the easiest to be found in the state. Some on the schedule were Oklahoma City Classen, Putnam City West, Yukon, and Woodward.

Coach Roger Pryor did not have the winning season that he would liked to have had, but the future looks bright for next year. Coming up for the Eagles next year will be the undefeated freshman squad along with the returning junior starters.

The Eagles were continually plagued with disease and injuries which constantly changed the starting five. Despite these handicaps, the squad advanced themselves to the finals in both the Custer County Tournament and the Southwestern Invitational Tournament.

Laura Olds, Junior, beams a smile after being crowned 1969 Basketball Queen. The other candidates were Cheryl Hamm, sophomore, and RuVae Bryan, senior, who were elected from their respective classes. The final selection of the queen was exercised by the players.

"Our 'B' team serves as a building ground for the coming years," said coach Roger Pryor when asked the purpose of the "B" team. "Playing 'B' team gives these boys the experience they need. We have a lot of good boys coming up." Those in the front row are Lamont Woody, Larry Owens, Mike Smith, Steve Stevens,

Junior High Basketball Team Goes Down Undeclared

Posting a very impressive record for the 1969 season was the junior high Eaglet freshman basketball team. During their eighth grade they finished their season unbeaten. This year these freshmen carried on their winning tradition by winning all twelve games that were scheduled. In the front row, left to right, are

Nineteen Eaglet matmen who endured and survived many hours of practice and the sweat that accompanied them, finished their 1969 wrestling season on February 14, with what their coaches and fans considered a very strong squad. The Junior High wrestlers performed at their best throughout the season and ended pleased with their better-than-average record of 3 and 3. Shown are bottom row: Michael Kelley, Lyle Gilworth, Clyde Per-

Wrestlers Win At Various Tournaments

High School wrestlers who returned to the mats on February 7, after the team's recuperating from mononucleosis are bottom row: Rex Gilworth, and Clifford Short. Second Row: Bill Miller, John Heathcoat, Kenneth Sandlin, and Jack Pitzer. Third Row: Coach Smith, Greg Bond, Marvin Jones, Randy Devine, Bobby Anderson, and Will Symonds, coach's aide.

Working out as early as January 15, the Eagle track men started preparation for their season by setting up six weight-lifting stations and participating in a variety of exercises in the school's field house. Members are, bottom row: Larry Owens, Dwayne Brown, Rodney Neufeld, Mike Johnson and Bill Arndt. Second

Wrestlers Acquire New Uniforms

Although wrestling had only experienced its second year in Weatherford High School, it developed the support and enthusiasm of a long established sport. Outfitted in completely new uniforms, the Eagle matmen have matched their brawn and ability against several tough competitors including Putnam City, Moore and McGuiness High Schools during the season.

Remarking about the completion in January of the new wrestling room, head coach Carl Smith said, "It helped the boys to better maintain their weights and conditioning under automatically controlled temperature." The sixteen members of the WHS wrestling squad tried-out each week to determine which "dirty dozen" would represent the squad in each of the twelve weights.

Highlights of the 1969 Weatherford track season under the supervision and training of new head track coach James Colclasure, included participation in track meets at Stillwater and Liberal, Kansas.

Working on the different holds during practice, Marvin Jones is caught as he is attempting to pin Randy Devine. The new wrestling building has sufficient space in which to place three mats. This allows the coaches to observe and to help six different boys at the same time during their practice session.

Baseball

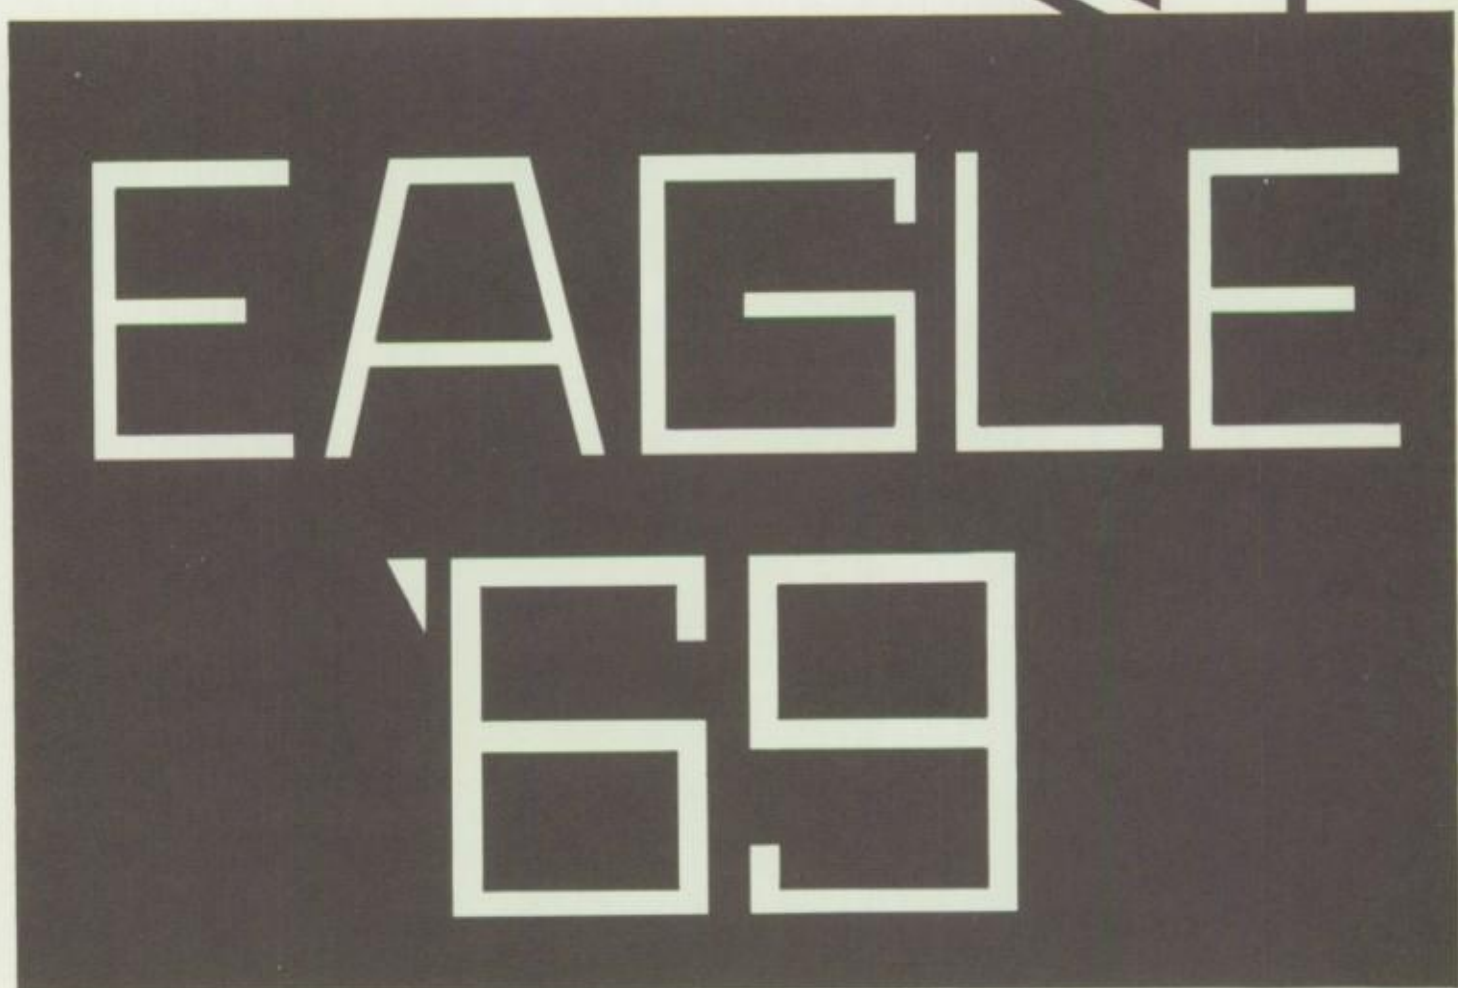

Season Begins With Enthusiasm

Starting the season with an unusually small squad of only eleven members, the Junior High Baseball team soon built an enthusiastic and hard working club with the guidance and help of their coach Roger Pryor, who took over Junior High Baseball this year along with his basketball duties. Eaglets shown are,

Seniors of "69" began the year with a burst of enthusiasm. The ninety-one seniors combined to be one of the most enthusiastic and hard-working classes ever to enter upon the campus of Weatherford high school.

During their junior year they exhibited their ingenuity by honoring the seniors of "68" with the biggest banquet in WHS history, with an attendance of two hundred fifty persons including students and guests.

The seniors put forth an extra effort to win the football ticket sales enabling them to choose the football queen and attendants from their class. Without a doubt they sold the largest quantity of tickets, when sales totaling 520 dollars were handed into the administration's office on September 6, 1968.

Besides working hard on extracurricular activities these seniors have spent much time in class: writing notes, listening to lectures, and taking tests which will help them to venture into their futures, better prepared to face the outside world and its problems.

The corridors of WHS will of course, never be the same after these graduating seniors have left them.

Each senior has the opportunity and priority to select his own style and color of graduation announcements. Making this decision is just one of the many duties given to these graduating students during their last year in high school. Having a hard time deciding on their announcements are members of the senior class, Rodney Neufeld and Bonnie Friesen.

Hard working seniors of 1969 had as their junior responsibility the task of producing the junior-senior banquet for the seniors of 1968. The theme of the banquet was "Camelot." Drew Snider, Mrs. Johnson—sponsor, Stan Templeton, Peggy Wilkinson, Les Dawson, Chris Fiegel, Linda Nix, Bunny Friesen, Becky Shelton, and Dixie Waters worked long and hard on one of the many decorating schemes, a large castle complete with a moat, to represent King Arthur's castle.

Braving icy north winds and unexpected rains made the job of the hard working juniors a bit more difficult. At each home football game they could be seen operating the concession stand at Milam Stadium, and bright and early the following morning the juniors' clean-up crew could be seen at the same location, clearing debris thrown by the excited fans.

But the juniors' jobs did not end with football concession stands. To earn additional money for the Junior-Senior Banquet, juniors maintained the concessions for home basketball and wrestling matches.

Another task undertaken by the ambitious juniors was that of selling mums for the WHS homecoming game. Orders were taken and the traditional flowers were distributed the day of homecoming. Proceeds from the sale amounted to sixty dollars.

Second semester, the Speech I class presented the second play of the year and profits from this also went to the junior class treasury.

Highlighting their junior year was the 1969 Junior-Senior Banquet. Mingling fun with hard work and careful planning, the juniors gave the graduating seniors a banquet that will, of course, never be forgotten.

The enthusiastic officers of the junior class are John Heathcoat, student council representative; Bonnie Schomp, business manager; Frank Sikes, president; Jo Ellen Short, vice-president; Dom Garrison, treasurer; and Chris LaMunyon, secretary.

Future Seniors Look To Final Year

Taking one last look down the corridors of WHS until next year are juniors Wylene Lay and Norris Payne.

Contemplating their assignment for Miss Stuckey's junior English class are Jim Maddox and Craig Wildman.

Car Wash Brings Income For Sophomores

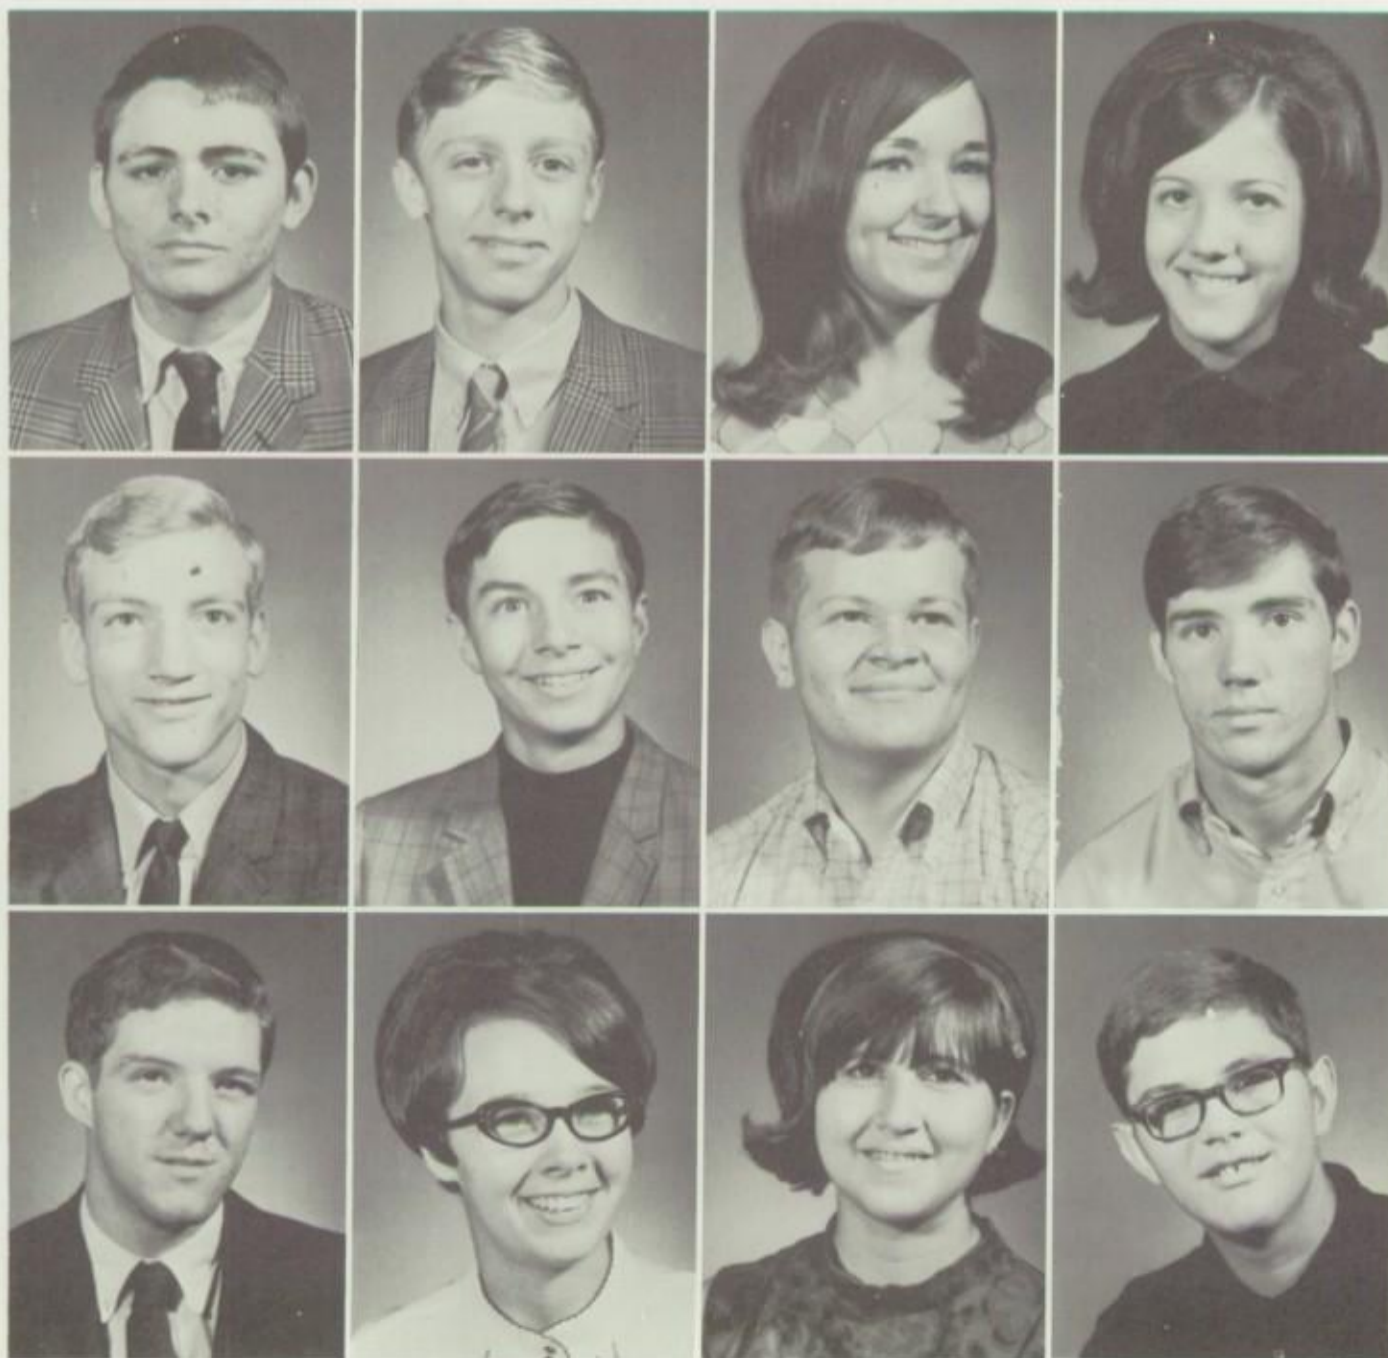

For a money earning project, sophomores held a car wash at a local gas station. The students that participated in this project found that they had to put in a lot of hard work in order to earn money for their class.

As a highlight at the end of the year, a group of Sophomore students was selected by the junior class and had the privilege of helping to present the program for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

The Sophomores of 1968-69 have had an exciting and busy year, as all past WHS sophomore classes have had.

Besides adjusting to the new high school way of life, the sophomores have gained additional knowledge in such fields as math and science.

The Sophomore Class Officers are Cheryl Hamm, Vice-President; David Hanson, Student Council Representative; Kathy Butler, Secretary-Treasurer; and Jody DeFehr, President.

"They're all right," replied Zane Bergen when asked for his opinion of the freshmen class. The freshmen of 1969 were kept busy with the traditional responsibilities of the class. They were in charge of the concession stand at all junior high football and basketball games, presented the freshmen assembly near the end of the year and highlighted their last junior high year with the freshmen graduation.

For the first time freshmen were allowed to leave study hall to work in the Reading Improvement Program, and a required girls' physical education course was added to the schedule.

Sponsoring this class through its activities were Mrs. Sherman Garrison and Mr. Doyle Bergner. Elected as class parents this year were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tindel and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Adler.

The officers of the 1969 freshmen class were Quannah Smith, president; Mike Smith, vice-president; Shawn Lockstone, secretary-treasurer; and Floyd Adler, student council representative.

Pausing for a moments rest from their many duties, are freshmen class officers Floyd Adler, Quannah Smith, Mike Smith and Shawn Lockstone. They are responsible for leading their class through its many activities and also in managing the business department of the class.

To begin their eighth grade year, this vigorous and enthusiastic class journeyed to the farm of their sponsor, Ralph Crall, for their annual class party—a cookout. This outgoing group of eighty-six members had also participated in the yearly football tickets and magazine sales in which they did very well. The magazines sales provided funds for the junior high student council. Each of the eighth grade members is looking forward to his future four years in WHS where he will begin his educational development for his future.

Leading the eighth grade are class officers: Tony Hooper, student council representative; Marilyn Smith, secretary; Larry Adler, president; Kirby Snider, vice-president, and Vickie Stroud, treasurer.

Three members of the eighth grade, Connie Parrett, Suzanne Stout, and Diane Jameson had to spend extra time in Mr. Pryor's math class more than once to work out those harder - than - average math problems.

Starting a new era in their education, the seventh grade students entered Thompson Junior High with prospects of demonstrating their capabilities. This past year gave an excellent insight to the class' potential.

In September the students worked and sold the largest amount of football season tickets entitling them to the privilege of choosing a queen to reign over the homecoming festivities.

Another highlight of the year was selling magazines. The students were not satisfied to win only the football ticket sales but went on to win the magazine sales, selling over $1,000 worth of magazines.

Looking toward a brighter horizon are the seventh grade officers: Jo Martin, Candy Jarvis, Susan Petrowsky, and Sue Kiehl.

In his book, "Short Studies on Great Subjects," James Anthony Froude wrote, "The solitary side of our nature demands leisure for reflection upon subjects on which the dash and whirl of daily business, so long as its clouds rise thick about us, forbid the intellect to fasten itself."

It was for this time of reflection that the staff of the '69 Eagle endeavored to combine into a single volume, the cumulative achievements, highlights, successes, and failures of the students of Weatherford high school.

In years to come, it is hoped that this book not only will serve its owner as a reference, or a passing memory, but also will give him another look at some of the impressions made on him and of him in high school.

For many, those who won't return to this school, memories are set, and ideas concerning the school are molded for eternity. But for those who return, the mirror image is still pliable, and "Who knows what a day will bring."
